Report Title:

1. Authorship Criteria, Responsibility, and Contributions. Authors are persons who have made substantive intellectual contributions to a publication and who can take responsibility for at least one component of the work. All authors who have contributed substantively should be listed as authors. Each author should meet at least one criterion for each section: A, B, and C (marking the appropriate boxes). The corresponding author should also complete section D. The corresponding author is the primary correspondent with the EPC program and reviews edits, key points for dissemination products, and press releases.

A. I certify that I made substantial contribution to (check at least 1 of 3 below):

- ☐ conception and design of the study
- ☐ acquisition of data
- ☐ analysis and interpretation of the data

B. I certify that I participated in (check at least 1 of 2 below):

- ☐ drafting the paper
- ☐ making critical revisions for important intellectual content

C. ☐ I have reviewed and approve the paper to be published.

D. ☐ I am the corresponding author.

2. Guarantor Statement and Acknowledgment Responsibilities.

The Guarantor is an author who is responsible for the publication as a whole (in addition to individuals responsible for individual sections), for identifying all authors who meet authorship criteria, and for identifying individuals who did significant work on the report but do not meet authorship criteria. Individuals who do not meet authorship criteria may include technical experts, key informants, or other EPC staff who have assisted in collection of data, supervision of research group, manuscript assistance, or administrative support, but do not meet authorship criteria. The guarantor should obtain permission from each person to be acknowledged in the acknowledgment section and should be able to provide documentation to the EPC program if requested. AHRQ Task Order Officers and EPC Associate Editors may be acknowledged for their contributions to systematic reviews and primary derivative manuscripts of systematic reviews. The guarantor should meet all the criteria below (A and B) and should check all boxes.

A. ☐ I certify that I am the guarantor and am responsible for the publication as a whole.

B. I certify that:

- ☐ all authors who meet authorship criteria have been listed in the report;
- ☐ individuals who contributed but do not meet authorship criteria are listed in the acknowledgment section of the report;
- ☐ I obtained permission from each person to be acknowledged in the acknowledgment section and, if requested by AHRQ, documentation will be provided to the EPC program;

this report is an honest, accurate, and transparent account of the EPC work done; that no important aspects of the EPC work have been omitted; and that any discrepancies from the protocol have been explained.
